

Mealtime Magic happens when eating is easy.

Children eat a lot better when eating is easy. To make eating easy...

- Use a child-size spoon and cup.
- Use a plate and bowl with steep sides to push food against.
- Cut all foods into bite-sized pieces.

- Serve finely chopped meat with moist foods, like mashed potatoes or macaroni and cheese.
- Serve small amounts! For a child this age, start with 1 or 2 tablespoons of each food. Your child can always ask for more.
- Show how to do things. Children learn more by watching you do something than by hearing what to do.

Each meal should have at least one easy-to-eat food that you know your child likes, such as bread, rice, banana, peas or noodles. You can relax, knowing that there is at least one food on the table that your child will eat.

To make clean up easy...

- Use a bib.
- Put newspaper under the chair.
- Have a paper towel or sponge handy for spills.

Mealtime Manners can help prevent choking.

Children this age choke easily. Cut foods into bite-sized pieces.

Hard, round foods can cause choking at this age. Cut hot dogs and carrots the long way first. Then cut them up so they are not round.

Table manners also prevent choking. Children this age need to hear your rules about how to act many times before they learn them.

Remind your child:

- We sit down to eat. We don't walk or run with food in our mouths.
- We don't chew and talk at the same time.
- We take small bites.
- We chew our food well.
- We swallow our food before we have a drink.

I am going to try some Mealtime Magic!
Here's what I will try to make meals easier and more pleasant:

| |
|----|
| 1. |
| 2. |
| 3. |

Do you have questions about your child's eating? Ask your WIC staff. They can help you with all your nutrition concerns.

Louisiana Department of Health and Hospitals, Office of Public Health
Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants and Children (WIC)
P. O. Box 60630, New Orleans, LA 70160

This institution is an equal opportunity provider.

Some photos used with permission of Louisiana Office of Public Health staff, Texas Department of Health, and the Maryland WIC Program. XX,000 copies of this Public Document were published at a cost of $xxxxx. Total cost of all printing including reprints is $xxxxx. Published by State Printing Office to disseminate information under authority of P.L. 95-627, Sec. 17 (b)(1). Printed in accordance with standards for printing. R.S. 43:31.

Mealtime Magic

with your 1 or 2 year old

Are you wishing for mealtimes that are pleasant and easy?

Try some Mealtime Magic today!

Mealtime Magic begins when you know what to expect at ages 1 and 2.

Knowing what to expect will help you relax. You can say to yourself, “Okay, this is normal at my child’s age. It’s not personal. I can deal with this.”

Expect children this age to eat better...

- when they are hungry.
- when they are allowed to feed themselves.
- when they can make choices.
- when they are not forced to eat.
- when they are not distracted by toys or TV.

Expect a small appetite because growth is slow now.

- Children this age may eat tiny amounts at a meal or snack.
- They may prefer to drink rather than eat.

Expect your child to refuse new foods. This is normal.

- Children this age like foods with mild flavors.
- They often prefer soft, moist, easy-to-eat foods.
- They avoid foods they have to chew, like meat.
- They may refuse a new food based on how it looks.
- They often go on “food jags,” when they want the same food over and over again.

It’s good to know that even the pickiest eater will eat enough to grow and be healthy if the foods you offer are nutritious.

10 tips that work like magic!

Eat together every day!

Children eat better when they eat with others. Don’t make them eat alone. Eat as many meals together as you can. Talk and have a good time. Make mealtime special.

Make meals pleasant.

Children eat better when mealtime is pleasant! If you fuss at your child, your child will not eat well. Try not to worry about what or how much your child is eating. Stay calm! Enjoy your own meal and the chance to relax and connect with your family.

Praise works like magic!

Notice and praise the things you like about how your child behaves and cooperates at mealtime. Praise the behaviors you want to see more often and your child will repeat them!

You decide what’s to eat.

Avoid asking your child what he or she wants to eat. You should decide the foods at each meal. Serve at least one food you know your child likes. Jumping up to make your child some other food he or she wants gets to be a habit and makes meals hard.

Take pressure off your child about how much to eat.

Watch what happens when you stop trying to make your child eat. Your child eats better! At mealtime, let your child decide what to eat, from the healthy foods you have fixed. Also let your child decide how much to eat. Expect that your child will just eat a little bit and will not try all the foods you offer.

Trying to make a child eat is just asking for a fight. Children don’t eat well if they are busy fighting.

Make sure your child is hungry for meals!

Children only eat well when they are hungry! At this age, they get hungry every 2 or 3 hours. This makes healthy snacks very important. Offer snacks mid-way between meals. Watch out for snacks and drinks too close to mealtime, however. They will spoil your child’s appetite for the meal--and your child will be more likely to pick at the food and fuss.

Children eat better in a high chair or at a table.

Children this age are easily distracted. Sitting in a high chair or at a table helps them focus on eating.

Get your child completely off the bottle.

Children eat better when they are weaned from the bottle. Little sips all day from a bottle or sippy cup can spoil the appetite for meals.

Get in a daily routine of meals and snacks.

Make life easier for yourself by getting into some daily routines. For example, eat at about the same times every day. A daily routine of meals and snacks every 2 or 3 hours will keep your child from asking for food all the time.

Be creative with new foods!

Ask your child to help buy or fix a new food.

Offer only a very small amount of a new food and serve it with a favorite food.

Expect to offer a new food many times before your child will eat it.

Eat the new food yourself! You are your child’s role model. Your child is always learning what to do by watching what you do!